Lynn's third time is a charm.Von Deborah MacgillivrayDenise Lynn's third Falcon book - Falcon's Love - follows her series for Harlequin Historical (Falcon's Desire, February 2003; Falcon's Honor, March 2005). It is another gem from a verypromising Historical Romance writer.Darius of Faucon is sent on a mission by his king. Actually, it's a two-purpose mission - he is there to protect the widow of Thornson Keep until a new husband can be found for her and to toss a medieval money wrench in a ring of smugglers operating in the area. Darius already knows the lass. Marguerite, Lady of Thornson was Darius' childhood friend, his first love. Darius harbors some bruised feelings since she wed another.Marguerite always loved Darius, but in true Medieval style, was forced to wed another. She hasn't forgotten the passion they once shared or the secret that love left her with. However, she cannot have Darius around. There are too many truths he might discover. A delightful tale that leaves you hoping more Falcons fly our way.
