an interesting book with an insight into the busy and stressful life of concert promotion. Natalia Ashley is the manager of the hugely-successful rock star Cain. Her life is one of constant telephone calls, living on the road, enjoying the music. However her charge's latest concert tour isn't going as well and Natalia thinks it needs an extra zing ' when she hears of a priest apparently casting out demons she thinks he might help to add something to the set. When Natalia meets priest Matthew Gallow she's surprised by him; clearly he is a fraud but he is a very good one and agrees eventually to help with Cain's concerts. There's much more to Matthew than Natalia realises though; as a fallen angel Matthew has lived for two thousand years and nothing feels special or important anymore. However meeting Natalia and becoming involved in a genuine exorcism seem to have awakened Matthew, not only to his feelings and senses but also to the suspicion that something dodgy is going on out there. It seems that Cain may have got sucked into something more serious than he ' or Natalia ' realise, but Matthew doesn't believe he's the one to sort it out. After all, he's a fallen angel. But can he really walk away from Natalia and her problems, and can they have a future? I did enjoy reading this book and the dual authorship didn't impact at all on the story as it sometimes can. I felt slightly distant from the main characters, not able to fully sympathise with or understand them, and I was left slightly confused at the end as to what exactly had happened in the final pages. Still it was worth reading and the rock concert scene was a different setting than the norm. Originally published for Curled Up With A Good Book Helen Hancox 2008

Kurzbeschreibung He thought he'd never find heaven again . . . until he met her. Matthew Gallow is a fallen angel, cast out of heaven for daring to disbelieve. Furious, frustrated, and empty, he roams the earth, pretending to cast out demons and preserve souls. He doesn't have faith in anything or anyone until the night he nearly dies fighting a true fiend. His whole world is shaken. And when he meets Natalia, he isn't sure if he can trust her...or the attraction he feels for her. Natalia works for Cain, a rocker living on the edge, and she invites Matthew to be a part of his wild stage show. It's perfect an exorcism for a man who says he's sold his soul to the devil. Only Cain really is in league with Lucifer, and all mankind is at risk. Matthew never before cared whether or not the world went to hell. But as his passion for Natalia grows, he'll fight to the death to rescue her from evil's grasp...and realize that love is the one thing that can save a fallen angel. Synopsis He has fallen from Heaven, but he will risk all for the woman he loves. Matthew once died for his faith, but was cast from Heaven when he began to question those beliefs. For three centuries now, he has roamed the mortal world, dissatisfied, empty, and angry. Posing as a traveling priest, he performs staged exorcisms, until the night he actually encounters a demon - on national television. Natalia is as stubborn as she is beautiful, and having grown up with little, she'll do anything to make a success of her life - even put up with her rock star of a client. Then someone gets the bright idea to stage an exorcism, and who better than the priest they just saw on tv. But Natalia has a strange feeling about Matthew, even as she succumbs to his charms. But there is more at stake than either Matthew or Natalia realize as the battle rages between the angels of Heaven and the demons from Hell.
