If you are looking for a story that is different and intriguing, look no further than a novel by Claire Delacroix.Von Detra FitchPeople of the Republic are divided, not by skin color or native land, but by the S.H.A.D.E. (Sub Human Atomic Deficiency Evaluation) test given to all at birth. The children who had been assessed as defective, usually as a result of exposure to radiation while they were still in the uterus, are used as servants and test subjects for new drugs and procedures. But if shades are so mentally challenged or deformed, why do the norms keep most of them continuously drugged? The angels now called Armand and Baruch sacrificed their wings in the hope of saving humanity. Their mission is to kill Maximilian Blackstone, front-running candidate for the presidency of the Republic. Until they complete their task, they will remain mortal. They keep the scars upon their backs hidden, so no one would know that they used to have wings. But when Baruch interrupts an assassin, the wounded angel finds himself in the hands of Dr. Cosmopoulos, who plans to dissect and vivisect him. Thus Armand finds himself alone, unable to rescue his brother angel and unable to complete the mission. However, Armand decides that since the lovely assassin caused the current problems, she would help solve them. Theodora is a wraith, a woman who does not officially exist. When she is interrupted from taking out her target, she instinctively shoots the intruder so she can escape. Unfortunately, Theodora finds herself captured by a second intruder. As the two attempt to better the world in their own, individual ways, Theodora and Armand soon find their missions entwined. Working together, they also begin trusting each other. This trust blooms into more. But in their quest to save the world, will they be able to save themselves? * FOUR STARS! No need to fret if you have not read the first two novels (Fallen and Guardian). You are still in for a terrific paranormal romance set in the year 2100. However, I strongly recommend buying and reading them so you will receive this story's full effect. The main characters from the first two stories are minor ones in this explosive episode. Armand's and Theodora's story is not, in my opinion, as exciting as the previous ones; however, I believe that is due to the complicated background of Theodora. This female assassin is a very complex character who has multiple layers to her personality, as well as, in her motives and priorities. I found Theodora to be even more intriguing than the angel due to this. If you are looking for a story that is different and intriguing, look no further than a novel by Claire Delacroix.  Reviewed by Detra Fitch of Huntress Reviews.

Kurzbeschreibung At the end of the 21st century, the future of humanity hangs in the balance, caught between the radioactive waste of a half century of nuclear wars and the repressive authority of the Republic. Angels sacrifice their wings to join a secret fraternity of freedom fighters, risking classification as mutants and consignment to the Republic's slave dens. Each warrior is a volunteer, but no angel anticipates the full cost of his fall. The eyes of the Republic are everywhere. Having sacrificed his wings in a bid to save humanity, fallen angel Armand has a bold plan to assassinate presidential candidate Maximilian Blackstone. When things go awry and his partner is gravely injured, Armand fears he will fail and forever lose the chance to rejoin the angels in heaven. Theodora is a wraith, a woman who officially doesn't exist. She lives in the shadows, taking risks to earn bounties that buy new life for those she loves. Captured when her latest hit goes horribly wrong, Theodora finds herself the prisoner of a strong, arrogant stranger. Soon enough, Theodora and Armand find their missions and their hearts entwined. But in their desperate attempt to save the world, will they be able to save each other? A true triumph of storytelling!
