DisappointedVon KundeI was looking forward to read my first Stella Rimington Novak, but was disappointed in that I had read almost the same story before by another writer. Who had written their story first I have no idea. I will try another book in her Liz Carlyle series as I liked her character, but wondered if someone with her mild upstanding manner could really do the roll given her in this book. The job I would say calls for someone detached and cold like many of the male characters in this book. Emotion, good as it is does not always call for clear objective thinking.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Sehr spannender KrimiVon no nameSpannend und zeitnah, ausserdem bengstigend aktuell. Situationen dieser Art knnte man sich auch in anderen westlichen Lndern vorstellen. Da die Autorin beruflich im Geheimdienst ttig war finde ich die Geschichte besonders interessant.

KurzbeschreibungTo catch an enemy with nothing to lose, Liz Carlyle must venture into dangerous waters. When pirates attack a cargo ship off the Somalian coast and one of them is found to be a British-born Pakistani, alarm bells start ringing at London's Thames House. MI5 Intelligence Officer Liz Carlyle is brought in to establish how and why a young British Muslim could go missing from his well-to-do family in Birmingham and end up onboard a pirate skiff in the Indian Ocean, armed with a Kalashnikov. After an undercover operative connected to the case turns up dead in the shipping office of an NGO in Athens it looks like piracy may be the least of the Service's problems. Liz and her team must unravel the connections between Pakistan, Greece and Somalia, relying on their wits - and the judicious use of force - to get to the truth. And they don't have long, as trouble is brewing closer to home: the kind of explosive trouble that MI5 could do without ...Stella Rimington, former Director General of MI5, returns with a tense and heart-stopping spy thriller where the secrets are deep, the stakes are high and the enemy is always just out of sight.
