Complex and Compelling Story Von Catherine Cavendish From the stunning cover onwards, I was hooked on this story. It is hard to categorise it in any one genre as there are elements of historical, paranormal, romance and more besides but Jasen Quick weaves plot and characters deftly to create a highly visual and, at times, very moving story. I loved the development of the two eponymous characters - Cage and Constance - as well as another key character, Clemmie. When I finished the last page, I still wanted more, so that's always a good sign! I believe this is the author's first novel. I shall definitely be buying his second.

Kurzbeschreibung Having survived two world wars, the death of his wife and an encounter with Jack the ripper, Cage Reynolds is lonely and depressed. He has a secret - one which defies modern science - and his life is not as it seems. He is 173 years old and he cannot die. On the day that he is pushed in front of a bus by a mysterious man, Cage meets Clementine, a lively young woman who knows more about Cage than she is letting on. She works for Constance Sullivan, a wealthy businesswoman who trades in antiques. When Cage is lured into her world he sees something that even he can hardly believe - something that changes his life forever.
