Nice space opera!Von Mariam KobrasI'd never heard of Edward Hoornaert until a friend mentioned him on Twitter. Even though I'm not finished with Trial of Tompa Lee yet I'll gladly say that it's all I expect from a space opera: alien planets, strange worlds, huge space ships, well-developed characters, and a spunky heroine, and a fast-moving plot. Well done, Mr. Hoornaert!

These days he writes mostly science fictioneither sf romances, or sf with strong elements of romance. He lives in Tucson, Arizona with his high school sweetheart, whom he married a week after graduation. His four children have all fluttered out of the nest, leaving behind a cat which, unlike some famous author's cats, is of absolutely no help in writing.
